JAIL GUARD GETS COUNTY CONTRACT

Mau Builders Are Much Stirred Up Over Affair

Walluku is much stirred up over the granting of a contract for public construction work to a man who already draws down a salary as a public employee. Iqawa Kalakaua, guard at the Maui County Jail, is the man in question, and the construction of a stable for the county is the job that is causing the racket.

The protest of the Walluku folk is against the Maui Board of Supervisors, which allowed Kalakaua to bid on the job, and then awarded him the contract. This in spite of the fact that the man draws down $69 a month as jail guard and receives his board gratis from the county.

The contract price for the stable in question was about $1500. As Kalakaua is already receiving a good monthly stipend, he is charged with having put in a bid at a figure which would not have given living wages to a contractor depending entirely upon his business for his support.

It is further alleged that the jail authorities have transferred Kalakaua from the day to the night watch, that he may have the time to work on his contract job, and that the man is being allowed to take sleeping time out of the hours when he is supposedly on duty.

It is charged that this is not the first time that desirable contracts have been awarded to persons in the employ of the county or Territory, and there is a general demand for some legislation which will put a stop to the practice.

HABEAS CORPUS CASE CONTINUED

Owing to the press of other business in the Federal Court today, the hearing on the writ of habeas corpus case of Shigematsu Umeno was continued until tomorrow. This writ issued and made returnable in the Circuit Court, was dismissed by Judge De Bolt, deciding that the Territorial Court had no jurisdiction in the matter. Attorney Peters then swore out a new writ, returnable to the United States District Court, the purpose of which is an attack on the constitutionality of the immigration laws and the right of the Department of Commerce and Labor to deport the Japanese woman to her own country for an alleged violation of the Edmunds Act. The basis for the writ of habeas corpus are recent decisions by the United States Supreme Court declaring certain portions of the deportation laws unconstitutional.

MORE PASSENGERS FOR LURLINE

Secretary Wood, in his letter to the Promotion Committee, writes as follows of local steamer accommodations:
The Matson Navigation Company writes from their San Francisco office, stating that they expect their new steamer "Wilhelmina" to be on the Honolulu run early in March and that she will have accommodations for 149 first cabin passengers.
The statement has also been made, unofficially, that as soon as business slackens up a bit, the Lurline will have a number of cabins added, bringing her passenger accommodations up to 100.

MATTER ADJUSTED PEACE REIGNS

It now appears that there was a misunderstanding between Judge De Bolt, of the Circuit Court and George Yamada, the Japanese Interpreter, over the order issued by the Court yesterday to the effect that the latter's services were no longer desired in that court. After an explanation, the Judge agreed to overlook the matter as a mistake. Mr. Yamada says: "I am not the regular interpreter for the Circuit Court, but am sworn in as a Japanese Interpreter for the Federal Court. Occasionally when the others want me, and I can be spared I go up to help them out. I did not know Judge De Bolt wanted me yesterday, so it was a misunderstanding. I explained to him, and everything is all right now. I always am quiet and attend to my own business, and do not want any trouble. I was not discharged from my position as stated over a year ago."

OTTO OSS PUTS IN THE LOWEST BID

And Will Erect Kitchen At the County Jail

Otto Oss will build the cook and bath houses for the County Jail. His bid of $624 for the combined jobs was the lowest submitted to the Supervisors, and at yesterday's meeting the contract was awarded him by unanimous consent. The bids were as follows:

Otto Oss, $624; Fred Harrison, $945; E. P. Chapin, $796; S. C. Hardisty, $652.40; John Ouderkirk, $920; H. K. De Fries, $842; W. G. Chalmers, $937.70; H. F. Bartleman, $680; George T. Green, $756.55.

Next in order was the opening of bids for the supplying of a kitchen range, bath appliances, and everything in the way of utensils from a copper boiler to a poker. The bids were dutifully read through and then referred to the Police Committee for tabulation.

The long-promised appropriation bill did not make its appearance, and will not do so until tomorrow night, when the county fathers will fight over its various ramifications.

ST. LOUIS IS COMING

A wireless telegram was received from the cruiser St. Louis reporting her as one thousand miles out at 8 o'clock last evening. Her commander reports that the cruiser will be in this port Saturday morning. The St. Louis is bound on a cruise to Samoa and Guam and will probably remain in port for some time.

ATTACK PLANNED ON INTERPRETERS

Every Japanese interpreter that may be employed by the court will be shown to be incompetent for the trial of the Agitators, according to the scheme now said to be on foot in strike agitator circles.

This is the plan that is laid to delay the trial of the Agitators after the jury is finally secured.

An attack will be made on every interpreter presented to the court to act in the case, and if one is finally obtained from among the interpreters in town, a running fire of attack will be made to discredit his interpretations.

Some of the interpreters are already practically scared out of any desire to be called into the trial by the threats that have been made of what will be done to them.
